

The Weather Girl Knows

This is a new kind of mystery drama that relies on elements of weather.

Haruko Abe is the main character. She was a prodigy that obtained a meteorological license at the age of eleven. She is now the meteorologist for a morning TV show. Since she is not very personable, she often ignores the people who she works with, even during the show.

But her cold demeanor while reading the weather report helps her gain a lot of fans. The lead anchorwoman, Akane Hashimoto, feels threatened by her presence.

One day, Haruko meets Gota Aoki, a rookie detective. Gota is investigating a string of mysterious arsons that only take place when it rains. Much to his surprise, she manages to unravel the mystery when she explains how the fires were caused by the weather.

Haruko now uses her meteorological background to help the police investigate crimes from a new perspective.

Haruko hates things she can not predict, like love. The black cloak is an important part of her personal wardrobe. Don't miss the new style she brings to solving riddles!
