REAL PEOPLE, REAL STORIES, FIRST-HAND

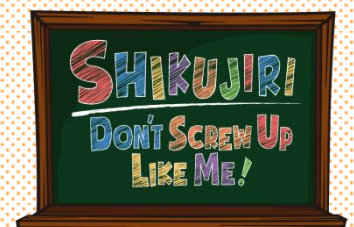

Life is a series of mistakes...but the secrets to success are actually hidden in these mistakes.

The show features real figures in entertainment, sports and politics who really screwed up in their past. Each one of them becomes a teacher in a classroom, shares his/her mistakes in detail and gives an entertaining and memorable lesson on how not to make the same mistakes.

For the class, an Original Textbook is prepared for the day's lesson. It shows where and how the teacher screwed up, and the lesson concludes with a teaching that tells what to do or not to do to avoid the same mistakes.

The students who are comedians and TV personalities interact with the teacher sharing the sorrow and regrets of ridiculously foolish or unfortunate events that happened because of his/her mistakes. Instead of treating the past screw-up in a negative way, a positive message of "screw-ups are in the past; you can start over again" is given throughout the program. An edu-tainment talk show with a feel-good ending filled with practical knowledge on how to duck screw-ups!

Winner of one of the most important annual awards in the Japanese television industry, "Hoso Bunka Foundation Prize 2015" in the "The Best Television Entertainment" category and the Galaxy Award in the "Encouragement Award for TV Programs" category.
